About FSSA Investment Managers

FSSA Investment Managers is an autonomous investment management team within First Sentier Investors, with dedicated investment professionals based in Hong Kong and Singapore. We are specialists in Asia Pacific and Global Emerging Markets equity strategies, managing assets on behalf of clients globally.

We are bottom-up investors, using fundamental research and analysis to construct high-conviction portfolios. We conduct more than a thousand direct company meetings a year, seeking to identify high quality companies to invest in. We look for founders and management teams that act with integrity and risk awareness; and dominant franchises that have the ability to deliver sustainable and predictable returns over the long term. As responsible, long-term shareholders, we have integrated ESG analysis into our investment process and engage extensively on environmental, labour and governance issues.

Performance review

Over the past 12 months, key contributors to performance included Tencent, amid a rebound in its core gaming business and improved regulatory conditions in China. Meanwhile the company's profitability has improved, driven by the shift in its business mix with newer businesses (such as video account ads and e-commerce) contributing higher gross margins. Oversea-Chinese Banking Corp (OCBC) reported better-than-expected earnings growth, driven by non-interest income and increased activity in wealth management.

On the negative side, Universal Robina reported worse-than-expected profits, driven by weak demand for branded foods and operating losses in the sugar segment. Unilever Indonesia also fell amid consumer down-trading and increased competition. Progress on the group's turnaround has been slower than expected, and underlying sales are still decidedly weak.

Portfolio review

New purchases over the quarter included Netease, the second-largest gaming company in China. The company has a portfolio of games with loyal users and a strong pipeline of new games that should support decent growth prospects. With a long track record and impressive returns over the past 20 years, we like the company's strong alignment and mind-set for returning value to shareholders.

We also bought Kasikornbank, the second-largest bank in Thailand. After years of poor performance, the Thai banking industry and Kasikornbank are moving towards prioritising profitability over growth. We expect provisions will decline after a decade of clean-up and returns on equity should improve from here.

We sold FILA and DBS to consolidate into more attractive opportunities.

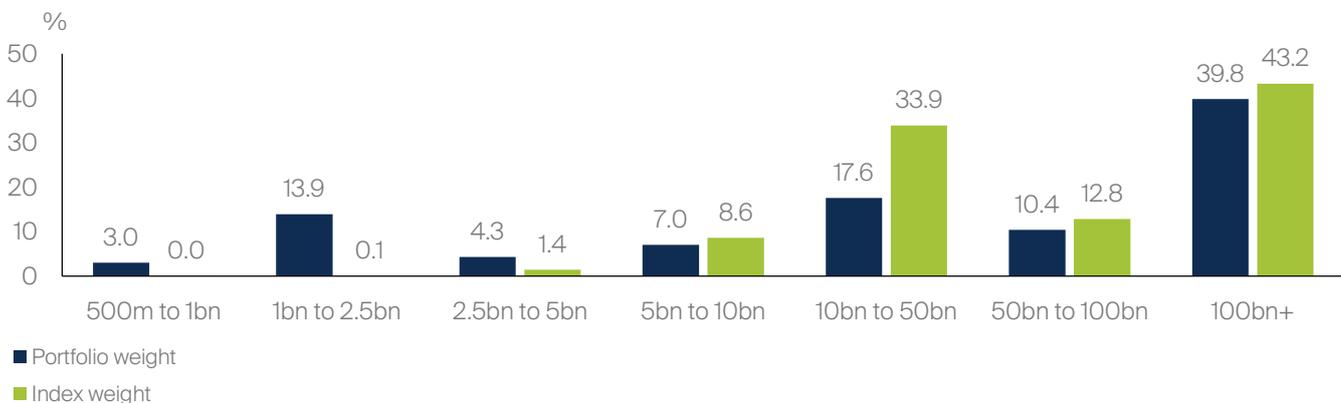

Stock spotlight

Netease Cloud Music is China's second-largest music streaming platform and has around 20% market share by revenue. It was launched in 2013 by online gaming company Netease, which is still a majority shareholder. From our experience investing in Netease, we believe founder William Ding has a good track record of capital allocation and treatment of minority shareholders. China's online music industry is a duopoly. While it is smaller than the leader Tencent Music, Netease Cloud Music has stronger user engagement and growth. It caters to younger users and has a higher share of independent musicians on its platform, accounting for around 40% of total music streams. The users at Netease Cloud Music are more open to discovering new music, and the platform encourages this by focusing on recommendations and social interactions.

The company is still in the early stages of growth, and the focus is currently on growing the subscriber base and gaining market share. We expect competition will remain benign as Tencent Music is focusing on increasing profitability. Recent regulations have clamped down on music content being exclusive, which has helped the distribution platforms by reducing their upstream content cost. In addition, platforms are moving from a fixed cost, minimum guarantee model to revenue sharing with catalogue owners, which should further improve profitability.

We see significant scope to increase monetisation over the long term. Global music platform Spotify has twice the ratio of paying users (40% vs 20%) and 4-5x average revenue per user (ARPU) compared to the Chinese platforms. Besides converting more free users into paid subscribers, other paths to monetisation include digital song purchases, live-streaming, advertising and long-form content such as podcasts and audiobooks.

Outlook

News about US reciprocal tariffs have rocked global markets, as President Trump announced sweeping import taxes that were far higher and affected a much broader swathe of countries than expected. The situation is still fluid, but our broad take is that the tariffs are being used primarily as a negotiation tool – an attempt to drive more manufacturing back into the US. If high tariffs do remain in place, it's clearly negative for the global economy.

From a portfolio perspective, even in a more adverse scenario, we remain confident in our holdings' ability to navigate the environment, as they have done in the past. Our companies are characterised by strong competitive advantages – whether in brand strength, distribution, or cost leadership – and have historically managed to preserve margins and profitability across cycles, despite headwinds. Most of our portfolio holdings have strong balance sheets (net-cash) which should allow them to weather a difficult period and invest counter-cyclically to gain market share.

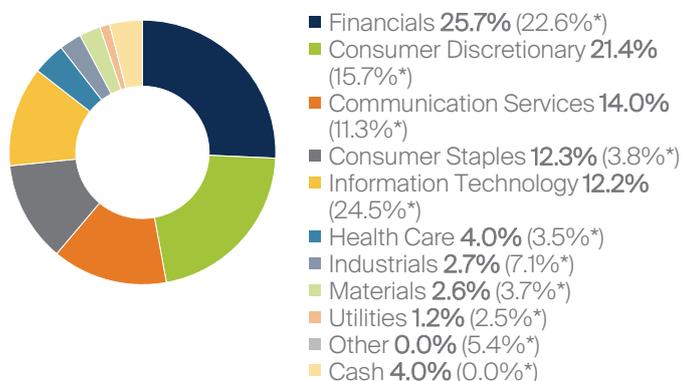

Our long-term investment themes:

- Dominant consumer franchises which have an edge in brand, distribution and innovation.
- High quality financials, supported by a strong deposit franchise or a specific loan niche.
- The rise in healthcare spending, due to increasing incomes and healthy consumer choices.
- Beneficiaries of a smarter, more connected world.
- An ageing population and the growing trend of automation.
